NY STATE FIRE

AT&T, MOTOROLA, QWEST, V-TECH TELEPHONE BATTERIES RECALLED

Lenmar Enterprises is recalling about 1,400 rechargeable batteries used in wireless phones. The batteries can overheat, posing a fire and burn hazard to consumers.

The firm has received six reports of batteries overheating, resulting in deformation of phones. No injuries have been reported.

The recall involves the rechargeable batteries with the model number CB0217 2.4 volt 1500 mAh NiMH. Only batteries with date code 0809 are affected by this recall. The date code can be found on the back of the battery. The batteries were sold as replacement batteries for the following phones:

AT&T	Motorola	Qwest	V-Tech
2401	BY03L	QW-2422	2420
2462	MD60	QW-2652	2422
5840	MD671
E2562	MD680
	MD681

The batteries were sold to electrical product distributors and retailers nationwide and at Lenmar.com from July 2009 through August 2009 for about $18. They were made in China.

Consumers should immediately stop using the recalled batteries and contact Lenmar to receive a free replacement.

Consumer Contact: Consumers can contact Lenmar at (800) 424-2703 between 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. PT Monday through Friday or visit the company's Web site at www.Lenmar.com

The recall is being conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC).
