

AWR-118 AWARENESS AND RESPONSE TO BIOLOGICAL EVENTS

NO. OF OPENINGS: MIN 25/MAX 40

NASSAU COUNTY

1 DAY

JUNE 14, 2018

LONG ISLAND

ANNOUNCED: MARCH 28, 2018

Description:

The course provides a brief overview of biological incidents that have occurred in the recent past; biological agents that are naturally occurring, could be accidentally released, or could be used deliberately; the typical course of disease and how that may vary in a deliberate incident; an overview of biological agents as terrorist weapons; and methods of protection from biological agents (with an emphasis on protection using methods and equipment readily available to emergency responders and the general public).

Objectives:

At the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- when a biological incident is occurring, recognize some signs that suggest what type and scale of biological incident it might be
- identify biological diseases that may be present in a biological incident and recognize signs that suggest a biological incident is taking place
- apply self-protection principles in the event of a biological incident
- apply what they have learned in the course to improve their readiness for a biological incident

Prerequisite

- Successful completion of a WMD awareness-level training course.
- Assignment to a supervisory position or a position responsible for development and delivery of training focused on responding to a biological incident; or assignment to a supervisory or management position responsible for the development of departmental policies and procedures governing the actions of emergency responders during WMD incidents (only required for participants attending the train-the-trainer format)
- In addition, completion of ICS 100 and 200 and IS-700 and 800 is recommended, but not required.
- To enroll in this course, participants must be US citizens and must possess or obtain a FEMA student identification number.
