

MGT-447 MANAGING FOOD EMERGENCIES

NO. OF OPENINGS: MIN.24/MAX 40

ALBANY COUNTY

2 DAYS

SEPTEMBER 25-26, 2019

CAPITAL DISTRICT

ANNOUNCED: JULY 3, 2019

Description:

This course helps jurisdictions develop a plan to effectively respond to a large food emergency. The goal of the course is to encourage multidisciplinary, multiagency planning to quickly mobilize resources in a food emergency. The course uses a whole community approach combined with NIMS, the Incident Command System (ICS), and the Emergency Operations Center (EOC) to respond to food emergencies.

Participants will learn how to identify a food emergency that should trigger a response; apply the principles of ICS; determine roles during a food emergency; identify resources; successfully communicate with other agencies and the public; and what to do during the recovery phase. The course combines facilitated discussion and scenario-based training to give participants tangible experience applicable to a real-world food emergency.

Objectives:

At the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- Describe how using the NIMS, the ICS, EOCs, and a whole community approach can improve food emergency responses.
- Examine credible surveillance systems and the triggers they produce to enhance their preparedness for and response to food emergencies.
- Develop appropriate response action plans to mitigate the effects of a food emergency.
- Develop communication and coordination strategies to minimize the effects of a food emergency.
- Manage the transition of resources from a food emergency response environment to strategies and activities essential for recovery from a food emergency.
- Evaluate the effectiveness of a food emergency response by determining strengths and weaknesses and by defining tangible steps to improve future food emergency responses.
